

January 9, 2017

Contact: Ralph Newell

Phone: 703.385.2419

Email: Ralph@DiverseEducation.com

2017 Most Promising Places to Work in Student Affairs

Fairfax, Va.— For the fourth year in a row Diverse: Issues In Higher Education is pleased to announce the Most Promising Places to Work in Student Affairs. The findings will be published in the March 23, 2017 edition of the magazine.

Through partnership with the Center for Higher Education Enterprise (CHEE) at Ohio State University and the American College Personnel Association (ACPA)—College Student Educators International, Diverse is able to report this important research to the public.

With a focus on workplace diversity, staffing practices, and work environment, the CHEE research team used a web-based survey approach to examine categories such as family friendliness, salary/benefits, and professional development opportunities, to name a few.

The list of 18 most promising places to work in student affairs (in alphabetical order) is:

- Bellarmine University
- California Polytechnic State University-San Luis Obispo
- California State University -Channel Islands
- College of William & Mary
- Hofstra University
- Indiana University Southeast
- Lynn University
- Miami University-Oxford
- Ohio State University-Columbus
- Olivet College
- Rutgers University-New Brunswick
- Saint Louis University
- Shepherd University
- Stony Brook University

- University of North Carolina-Wilmington
- University of Vermont
- University of West Georgia
- Virginia Tech

For over three decades, Diverse: Issues In Higher Education has been America's premier source of timely news, provocative commentary, insightful interviews and in-depth special reports on diversity in higher education. Savvy individuals who appreciate the crucial and ever-changing role that higher education plays in the lives of students, professionals, their families and their communities make reading Diverse a regular habit.

####